In the beginning space between country society leaders of London have devoted themselves solemnly to learning how to breathe in strenuous physical training and mental culture.

The everlasting "crossing" of the ocean means much more than traveling is taking effect and the result of Gotham and New York's society seems to be learning how to breathe
mental culture.

Bazell-Gibson Wedding.

One of the happiest matrimonial ceremonies in many seasons was the marital service Monday evening at the home of the bride in the Harvey Hotel of Winslow, Ariz., when Miss Helen Marie Gibson and Dr. Ross Gould Bazell were made one. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gibson and on account of the official position and popularity of her father who is superintendent of the Albuquerque division of the Santa Fe coast lines, and the extensive acquaintance of the groom, who is an eminent physician of Winslow, the marriage occasioned exceptional interest, extending through several states and unnumbered hearts beat in happy union with those of the bridal couple.

Immediately the fad took hold in New York city, and physical trainers are in demand in the private gyms-nasiums of the rich. Swimming is the fad of English ladies, except in the ocean, where just now the craze for fancy swimming costumes is developing. The prime minister is the rendezvous of tennis-happy sports from European cities and their colonies of colonies, who seek after weeks extended by Lady Asquith and English newspaper men in acquiring familiarity with the silent laughter of the sun-kissed pastures.

The bride was radiantly beautiful in a simple white creation of silk veiled in chiffon, with a deep circle of white satin. Miss Scott of Holbrook made a charming bridesmaid, and the groom was assisted by his brother, Dr. William Bazell of Flagstaff.

His charming bride, also a frequent visitor in this city where she is a social favorite, is a sister of Mr. Philip Jagels of Los Angeles.

A honeymoon season will be passed by Mr. and Mrs. Haining, visiting the Grand Canyon, and the beaches of California, after which they will be at home to their friends in Los Angeles after October 1. Present at the wedding ceremony were Mrs. Louis Haining, mother of the groom; Miss Dolores Haining and Mrs. W. M. Conrad, sisters of the groom; Mrs. Frank Haining, W. M. Conrad and son Louis; Mr. Philip Jagels, brother of the bride, and Miss Isabelle Rorer.

When the midnight train carried Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Davis from the scene of the kidnappers in the kidnapped but not returned. The former returned to the entire town and the latter remained a popular hide-and-go-seek.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Basell will be in Winslow.

Notable Wedding.

A beautiful home wedding, marked by simplicity and elegance, transpired Tuesday morning at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Louis Haining, 109 North Eighth street. One of the social prominences of the metropolis, excepting interest attaches to the evening president over to Misses Helen Hope, Marie Hope, Jean Ayres and the Clifters twins.

House Party at Ward's.

With characteristic ingenuity and hospitality in the entertainment of friends, Miss Laura Ward conceived the bright thought of organizing a house party of seven congenial friends in the city, and the past week has been a continual round of merriment at the Ward home, 295 North Third street. Girls of student age are irresistibly inventive in ways and means of enjoyment, and with seven together as there have been the last two weeks surprises and humor have put to rout all notion of prospect life. Also many young men have occasionally happened to drop in for the evenings during the week. Yesterday afternoon the number of young ladies was considerably augmented and a double party was perfected by the bride and the maid of honor and the bridegroom and his bride joined together to break up tomorrow's affair.
